enough not to be under the delusion that attacked the estimates as a whole the broad ground that "the working of the Government is extravagant." Hongkong, October 8th. 1910. That is well enough so far as it goes, It is unusual to have a second debate on for these are times which do not warrant the Colonial Estimates after the Budget has increases in establishment charges; but been referred to Committee for detailed a general accusation of extravagance would examination, but the departure made from be all the stronger if it were supported by this rule at Thursday's meeting of the illustrative instances. The Hon. Mr. Legislative Council is justified in the HEWETT said he had not come prepared for circumstances. When commenting upon this debate and therefore could only comthe debate on the Estimates a week ago, we discussed the unsatisfactory nature of the HIS EXCELLENCY Sir HENRY MAY made a reply by H.E. THE OFFICER ADMINISTERdefence of several items other large increases ING THE GOVERNMENT to the protest made remain unexplained. We imagine the by the Hon. Mr. HEWETT against a net public would have liked, for instance, to increase of about $75,000 in the total know what has added so much to the work salary list. His Excellency's reply showed of the Colonial Secretariat as to require the services of two additional cadets; also why meet the consequences. that he had not clearly grasped the point, and it rather suggested that Mr. HEWETT a second assistant auditor is now necessary; had discovered a mare's nest. The Hon- and why also the Public Works Department Mr. Osborne's complaint that the establish | must spend ten or twelve thousand dollars ment charges of the Sanitary Board alone next year on temporary assistance, when a showed an increase of $25,000 was left re-arrangement of holiday arrangements space of time, or death will be his fate, we are entirely unnoticed. Having regard to all might conceivably render this unnecessary We gather from the Directory that the that we have heard during the last year Director of Public Works has a staff of about "retrenchment" nine executive engineers and ten assistant government departments, these two engineers. Of these, four executive engineers reatures of the criticism of the estimates by are at present out of the Colony, three the Unofficial Members were very striking. being on long leave and one gone or and the omission of His Excellence to promotion to another Colony. How many furnish clear and direct answers to those assistant engineers are on leave we do not complaints was obviously open to more than know-three, at least; possibly more. It one interpretation. As we pointed out in may be that there is some more or our comments on the debate a week ago, satisfactory explanation of all this. some allowance has to be made for a speaker who has to reply off-hand to an avalanche of criticism immediately it has fallen. The HisExcellency desired to burke discussion leave lat the same time. It is consideraof these points, and he took on Thursday the earliest opportunity of rectifying the omission. Hrs Excellency laid on the table detailed list of posts abolished and new posts created, and this statement showed a net increase due to the creation of new posts amounting to $72,640. Included in this amount is the increase of $21,528 in the Sanitary Department vote, which was explained to be due to a decision of the Sanitary Board to undertake the scavenging departmentally, instead of getting it done by contractors as heretofore. Against this increase, due to the provision of a staff for this work, has to be put the fact that the Board will not be paying scavenging contractors, and it has been estimated that the decrease in money spent on the contract about balance the increase in the establishment charges. The Hon Mr. Hewert, as a member of the Sanitary Board, has been opposed to this change, seemingly because he has no longer any faith in government "estimates," after the striking evidences we have had of their unreliability, in connection with the new Law Courts, the Post Office, the Railway, the Kowloon waterworks and other undertakings. However, so far as the increase in the establishment charge of the Sanitary Department is concerned, the Government offers a satisfactory explanation, but remains to be seen whether this increase in establishment charges will actually be balanced by savings under "other charges. If so there will be no increase in the total expenditure of the Department. Deducting the increase in the Sanitary Department salaries from the total, we have

part of every firm, to keep down expenses

Nicola is fully entitled to the description generally applied to him. He is "great." Were it not so, he could not set communities agog with excitement and nightly draw large andiences to see him. Without doubt he is the most discussed man in Hongkong at present and those who have witnessed his performances realise that they have been treated to exhibitions which are far in advance of the ordinary. Hig illusions are marvellous. The audience realise they are being tricked, but it is so cleverly done | Pass. that they are simply lost in amazement. Last night he was faced by another full house and the programme delighted and puzzled every body. Interest centred in the feat annonneed by the great magician that he would allow himself to be placed in a box supplied by Messrs. Price & Co., and the box nailed up. He was duly closed up in the packing case, which had special clips for fastening the corners, and he fulfilled his promise of escaping from it without breaking the box. How it was done no one could guess, but when the audience grasped what had been accomplished they broke into rapturous applause. NICOLA'S DEATH-DEFYING FEAT TO-NIGHT.

To-night, we are informed, the Great Nicola will perform "what is without a doubt the most dangerous feat ever attempted by anyone surely the test is the most wonderful of all that this wonderful conjurer has yet presented in plain generally of the increase. Though Hongkong." He proposes to have a large milk can brought upon the stage, which will be filled to the top with water, then Nicola will be placed in the can, his head and body will be submerged under water, and a large cover will be fastened down with five or six padlocks, the keys of which will be held by the committee. PALACE-POLITICS IN PEKING.

The changes in high Government offices at Peking, set forth in the Decree of August 17 are of far greater significance and importance than would appear from the tenor of the messages telegraphed by Renter's correspondont. Their tendency is on the surface progressive, and the new appointments are most satisfactory from the European's point of view, especially that by which Tang Shao-yi becomes President of the Ministry of Communications; but to attribute this Edict to the conciliatory influence of the Regent's brother, the Prince Tsai Tao, is to ignore the essential facts of a most interesting situation. The changes now decreed may perhaps be regarded as an admission on the part of the Regent that, " his policy of the last 18 months has been a failure," but those who have watched the course of events at Peking since the death of the Empress Downger (November, 1908) have been led to realize of late that this admission was bound to be extracted from him by pressure of superior forces, the forces of the Yehonala Clan, led by the present Empress Downger, Lung Yu, the widow of his late Majesty Kuang Heu. It is impossible in the space of this article to set forth in detail the origins and objects of the several factions whose party strife is waged unceasingly in and around the Forbidden City; the subject is extremely intricate and perplaxing in its kaleidoscopio variations. It would require a separate chapter, for instance, to explain the recent rapprochement between the Yehonala Clan and the Aisin Giores (Red and Yellow Girdles); suffice it, therefore, to say, that since the death of the old Empress Dowager T2e Hsi important changes and divisions Gioros, who were formerly arrayed in a solid of her name, are not exempt from its influences. body against the Yehonalas, are now making | She was aware, it is true, that her brother, the common cause with that powerful family against | Duke Kuei Hslang, Lung Yu's father, was the Regent and House of Chun.

THE REGENCY AND THE THRONE.

of the situation, which are likely to produce far reaching results in the future, it is necessary to bear in mind the conditions under which the present child-Emperor was chosen for Throne and his father, Prince Chun, appointed to the Regency. In the first place, there were, strictly speaking, two candidates for the Throne whose claims in the direct line of succession were superior to those of the present Emperornamely, Prince Pu Lun and Prince Kung. At the solemn Council convened by the Empress Downger on the morning of November 14 1908, when his Majesty Kwang Hsu lay at the point of death, the claims of Prince Lun were advanced by Prince Ching and earnestly supported by Yuan Shih-kai, on the ground that the moment was opportune for reverting to the orthodox succession on lines primogeniture, but the old Empress Tzu Hsi's masterful methods carried the day, as usual, and her nominee, the Prince Pu Yi (then less than three years of age), was proclaimed as Kunng Hsu's successor. Two things are noteworthy in regard to this selection : first, that in making it the Empress Dowager fully expected to live and to continue as Regent to administer the Government : secondly, as she frankly informed the Council, that her choice was made fulfilment of her promise given to Jung Lu at the time of the marriage of his daughter Prince Chun (1902). For Prince Chun, and theother brothers of the late Emperor, she had no great affection, but so long as she herself lived his position as Regent was clearly ordained to be held subject to her supreme authority.

On the morning of the day of her death (November 15, 1908), being apparently in good health and spirits, Tzu Hei assumed the title of Empress Grand Downger, making Kuang Han's widow (her niece) Empress Downger, That same evening, after a sudden collapse, she died, but before her death issued a Decree in the following terms:-

By command of the Empress Grand Dowsger: Yesterday-I issued an Edict whereby Prince Chun was appointed Regent, and commanded that the whole business of government should be in his hands, subject only to my instructions. Being now selzed of a mortal sickness and without hope of recovery, I order that henceforward the government of the Empire shall be vested in the hands of the Regent. But should there arise any question of importance, in regard to which an expression of the Empress Dowager's is desirable, the Regent shall in person apply to her for instructions and shall not in accordance therewith.

The Regent, therefore, holds his mandate, such as it is, not from the late Emperor, but from the old Dowager. The fact is of interest, and of no small importance in determining the nature of his position and the extent of his authority vis-d-vis the present Empress Downger, Lung Yu. In the eyes of the party which now thwarts his policy and questions his powers he is Regent only during the good will and pleasure of Lnng Yu, the real inheritor of Tzu Hsi's supreme authority. this connection it is to be remembered that the Emperor Kuang Hsu himself held his mandate not (as the dynastic house-laws require) from his predecessor on the Throne, but from Tzu Hai, who, in order to secure here position as Regent, had violated by his appointment the laws of succession and made him to all intents and purposes, a puppet abinitio. Tzu Hsi, in fact, repeatedly proved that the solemn houselaws of the dynasty become remarkably elastic in strong hands, and there is every reason to believe that the hands of the present Empresa Downger, Lung Yu, are strong.

THE PRESENT EMPRESS DOWAGER.

Lung Yu is the daughter of the Duke Kue Hsiang, the third and favourite brother of Tru Hsi. She was never on good terms with her husband, the late Emperor, and at the time of the coup d'état in 1898 was openly on the side of her illustrious aunt and the reactionary Manchus. For this reason there has never been any love lost between her and the Regent and his brothers. Moreover, the Regent's wife, a daughter of the great Jung Lu, has done nothing (as might have been expected) to improve matters; on the contrary, she has incited her husband to take a strong and independent line of action, and she herself has openly disrespectful to Lung Yu. During the period which followed immediately upon the sudden death of the old Downger and before the accession of Prince Chun's son to the Throne had created a coalition against the Regent amongst the senior members of the Imperial Clan, Lung Yu perforce acted cautiously, collecting and organizing her forces; but from the outset there have been rumours of her dissatisfaction with the Regent's policy and proceedings, with his assumption of the right to sleep in the Palace and other Imperial prerogatives. This dissatisfaction and her claims to exercise a controlling authority were first publicly manifested in the removal of Tuan Fang (a nominee and protego of the Regent) from the Vicerovalty of Chibli, on a charge of having dailed in respect to the memory of Tau Hai on November, 1909. His successor to the Vicerovalty was persona grata with the deceased Empress, and as the shief prerogative and manifestation of authority in China lies in the Viceroy appointment of high officials to lucrative posts. it was realized at Court that the Regents had "lost face and eaten bitterness."

The present changes are a further indication of the fact that Tzu Hsi, being dead, ye speaketh, and that the position of the Regent is neither entirely comfortable secure. The return to high office Tang Shao yi-one of China's ablest a sincere progressive and the foremost lieutenant of the great Viceroy Yuan Shih-kai-is not improbably due to some extent to the critical position of affairs in Manchuria created by the Russo-Japanese Treaty, which rehabilitation of Yuan Shih-kai.

Yet this is what has actually come to pass.

The latest reports from Peking confirm Renter's statement that the issue of the Decree has created much excitement official circles and a general expectancy further developments. In the event of a crisis occurring, it would not be surprising if Lung Yu were to follow the example of her illustrious predecessor and to issue an Edict in her own name depriving the Regent of his office and consigning him to the Imperial Clan Court for the determination of a suitable penalty. She could readily find, as Tan Hsi found, precedents for such a course in Chinese history, which even provides for the annulment of child Emperor's title on the ground that his father had conspired against the Empress Downger. There is no doubt that what may be called the Legitimist (or orthodox succession | Party in the Palace favours the idea of putting Yu Kang; the son of Prince Pu Lun, on the Throne, but for Lung Yu's own immediate purposes, and the complete defeat of the Regent's wife, it would probably suffice were she to assume the Regency in her own person, a step which, with the support of the Imperial Clansmen, would perhaps present little difficulty, and which she could justify to the nation by the deathbed mandate of Tzu Hsi, above quoted.

Lung-Yu's position has been much strengthened by the unconcealed opposition of many metropolitan and provincial officials to the Regent's employment of his brothers in high positions and to his recent proposal vetoed by the Empress Downger, to place Prince Tsai Tao on the Grand Council. Amongs others, Hei Liang, the Viceroy of Manchuria, has sent in a strong memorial denouncing the Regent's conduct, which he declares to be contrary to all dynastic precedent. That there is strong and increasing chance to be passing through a period when we opposition to the Regent is clear, and it is to are compelled to consider our mistakes of policy, be observed that, like his brother the late Em- the definite and beneficent results of British rule peror, the Regent himself is rather a passive resister than a fighter by instinct. But the courage of Jung Lu animates the Regent's wife and around her are gathered the forces of the party which supports the House of Chun.

YEHONALA INTEIGUES.

A fact which is not generally appreciated, and which bears closely on the situation, is that there is no Yehonala blood in the present Emperor. It is true that the first Prince Chun, the Regent's father, was married to a sister of Tzu Hsi, the Lady Yehonals, who died in 1896; the Regent was not the son of this lady, however, but of one of the Prince's senior concubines (Prince Tsai Tao was born of the same mother). This lady is still alive, a woman of forceful character, who exercises no little influence over the Regent. It will readily be understood that much of the hostility of the Regent and his brothers to the Yehonala Clan dates back to the time of their childhood and to the domestic quarrels in the household of the first Prince Chun, quarrels of bitterness and jealousies between the Lady Yehonala, his Consort, and his concubines and their children.

To the Regent's vacillation and to his want of tact in the preferment of his brothers may be ascribed the coalition which has been formed against him by the senior members of the Imperial Clan and the Yehonala family. He appears to possess that unfortunate combination good intentions and bad performances which characterized his unhappy brother, the late - Emperor. But the women of party are of a different temperament and constitute no negligible factor in the situation. Given time and opportunity, their influence may yet save the situation for the House of Chun. Amongst the latter's supporters in the ranks of the high. officials are Na Tung, President of the Waiwupu, and the Commander-in-Chief, Yin Chang, while the foreign-drilled Manchu troops are understood to be loyal to the Regency. Finally, an important factor in the politics of the Palace is that hoarded treasure of the late Empress Dowager, estimated at some ten millions sterling, to which Renter's correspondent incidentally refers. Since Tzu Hsi's death the balance of power between the parties in the Forbidden City has been such that neither could risk a decided move to dispose of this hoard without serious risk of setting in motion the fierce denunciations of censors and other machinery of organized hostile opinion. would now appear as if the Empress Dowager's party, feeling itself sufficiently strong, is preparing to dispose of this treasure while taking steps to conciliate public opinion in advance by identifying itself with a progressive programme. -A Times correspondent:

Mr. Dickenson, the U.S. Secretary of State for War, has been having a triumphal tour in North China. In Peking much was made of his visit, and we read that all the way, from the occasion of her funeral ceremonies in Peking to Mukden special honours were shown him. At Mukden Mr. Dickenson availed himself of the four hours' stop-over to call upon the

The trend of events in the East is better comprehended to-day, and we do not doubt that the Crown Prince fully shares the modern recognition that the spirit animating Eastern peoples, though it grows more self-reliant, remains on the whole pacific. We feel assured that nowhere in his wanderings will the Crown Prince be more warmly received than in India. The traditional hospitality of Hindustan finds expression upon such occasions in the welcome extended by Government, Princes, and peoples slike. in this instance the greeting will be doubly cordial: for the Imperial visitor is not only the heir to a great and powerful Throne, but he also the kinsman of the King-Emperor and the descendant of an English Princess. Though the visit will be short, lasting only two months it will be long enough to give the Crown Prince more than a fleeting glimpse of the vast Asiatic dominions of Great Britain. He will see not only that their extent is enormous, but that they involve almost immeasurable responsibilities. No man born to rule can travel da after day over the broad plains of India, wit their swarming population, without realising that the successful control of the destinies of so many millions must be beset with difficulties. The Crown Prince will, perhaps, see more of the concrete achievements of British rule than of its admitted shortcomings; but, though we in India are still splendid enough to be shown with pride and confidence. From the outset the Japanese appreciated these difficulties and saw that exceptional means must be resorted to. Accordingly they decided upon organizing a campaign of investment. In other words, they determined to surround the region of the aborigines with electricallycharged wire entanglements. Already some 300 miles of these obstacles have been constructed, and they will be gradually pushed forward until the aborigines are wholly cared But, for the moment, the task to be accomolished is the escalade of the mountain fortresses behind which the northern aborigines have

The ossualties have been heavy in proportion to the number of troops, and the Japanese at home, awakening to the hardship and perils of the task, are subscribing liberally to send comforts to the front.

When this Giran-Shinohika campaign carried to a successful termination the paths down the southern slope of the mountains will be open for the first time in history, and then will be undertaken the final operations against the Taroka aborigines, who will be attacked, from laud and sea simultaneously.

CRICKET FROM THE COLONIES.

BY THE REV. R. S. HOLMES.

I am just old enough to remember the earliest visits of English cricketers to Australia in the fall of 1861 and 1863, for as boys we were cricket mad. These tours were scarcely regarded as serious tosts, and just because every match was against odds. When W. G. took a team in 1873 the Colonials did not venture to meet them on even terms, not one eleven aside match being arranged; but the first match against eighteen of Victoria, in which we were beaten by an innings, proved conclusively that the game had made vast strides in the previous decade And what wonder? For seven years-1864 to 1871 - Melbourne and Sydney cricketers had been coached by William Caffyn, the finest allround cricketer of his day, of whose play, said Daft, "I cannot speak too highly."

For all that, our supremacy on the cricket field was undisputed, and it did not seem likely over to be challenged

Then came the rude awakening in March, 1877, when at Melbourne the pick of English professionals were beaten by an eleven of Australia by 45 runs, Charlie Bannerman with a not out score of 165 at once taking rank among the great batemen of the world. The following year the first Australian team came over here and in their second match against a most powerful M. C. C. eleven, which was almost of England strength, they convinced us that at last we had met foemen worthy of our steel.

For the future England would have to look to its hurels: no longer could we have everything ENGLAND ON A BACK BEAT. Since then these tours have been repeated played last year, when Australia won two of the three that were finished and had the better of the two drawn games, showed us that even at home England must take a back seat."

We have this consolation-that our con querors were our pupils: and it is the finest compliment to any master to be beaten by his own scholar in his speciality. For those of us who can recall the 1878 team know well enough that in batting they had everything to learn, and very quickly they learned it: too.

But did they teach us anything? Yes, much in all but batting. For instance, there was Spofforth's bowling as well as Blackham's stumping, not to mention Boyle's fielding at silly mid-on. Was there ever the equal of Spofforth or of Blackham? Spofforth in the early tours bowled very fast, but in every over there be one slow ball delivered with precisely the same run and swing of the arm as his fastest ball. That was something new. And yet to his bowling Blackham stood close behind the stumps and dispensed with the

Who of my readers was present at the historic Test match at the Oval in 1882 which Australia won by 7 runs ? All our men said that Spofferth's bowling was "the finest ever seen on a cricket

It was W.G. I think, who told me that made the ball break in the last innings from three to twelve inches, and yet every ball would have hit the wicket. And Blackham stood up close, although a couple of boundary byes would have lost the match. For nerve and skill combined I have never seen the equal of Blackham at that critical stage. He was incomparable. Our cricketers learned a wrinkle or two from

Dave Gregory, the first Australian captain, without local business. used to change his bowlers, no matter though they were not being hit, whenever they were not getting wickets. Every 20 or 25 runs a fresh bowler would be called upon.

Maiden overs, so dear and even sacred to English cricketers, he cared nothing for. To-day in county and club cricket all captains might with advantage follow Australia's lead in this respect. The business of a bowler is not to keep runs down, but to dismiss batsmen.

And here is Sou h Africa demanding notice. They tanght us something; and that was how to bowl an off-break ball with a leg-break

As cricket is laying so fast a grip on every part of our vast Empire, who knows that before long Test matches may be played by teams of Hindus and West Indians, who may succeed in lowering England's flag. Will they, too, furnish us with valuable object lessons? - London Evening News.

INDIAN AFFAIRS. REVIEW OF THE SITUATION.

The Times has published the thirty-seventh and final article from its special correspondent on the Indian unrest. The article, which is headed "Conclusions," says that no Vicercy for fifty years has gone to India at so critical moment as Lord Hardinge of Penshurst. It is too early yet to judge whether the blended policy of repression and conciliation adopted by Lords Morley and Minto has really cowed the forces of criminal disorder and rallied the representatives of moderate opinion to the cause of constitutional progress, or whether this momentous question will be determined largely by the statesmanship, firmness, and patience which the new Vicercy brings to the discharge of his constitutional functions as personal representative of the King-Emperor, and the Go emor-General in Council and as head of the Government of India.

HONGKONG SHARE MARKET.

Messrs. Vernon & Smyth in their weekly share report dated 7th October state : -

Business during the past week has again been much restricted, but on the whole rates have ruled fairly steady for all local stucks. "Rubbers" in the early part of the week suffered a further decline in sympathy with lower Home quotations, but a rally in London having since taken place, an improvement locally has also set in, and the closing tendency is towards a further advance. Fine Hard Para Rubber was last quoted from London at 6/ per lb., and the tone of the London share market "firm." Bar Silver in London has advanced to per oz, and Sterling exchange to 1/91 T.T. T.T. rate on Shanghai closes at 73g, and bank's buying rate for 3 d/s bills at 74.

A Medical Officer

Debility, Nervous Exhaustion-

Certainly the absolute confidence of eminent doctors is evidence enough of the exceptional benefits imparted by Phosferipe. Even doctors cannot do more to prove their confidence than by using Phosferine to remedy their own disorders. Could any proof be more definite, more convincing than the testimony of John Dodd, D.S.M., Medical Officer in the late South African War, who says: "After being shot through both lungs I was dangerously reduced, and I attribute it solely to Phosferine that I regained my usual health. I have proved the value of Phosferine in brain, nerve, and muscular exhaustion." This brilliant medical officer found Phosferine particularly serviceable for insufficiency of nerve force, and declares nothing was so suitable in combating fevers, chills, &c.

Not possible now

John Dodd, D.S.M. (late of the Medical Staff, 5th Imperial Yeomanry, 1st Brigade, South Africa), Ladysmith House, Witton-le-Wear, writes: _"I have had considerable experience in the use of your invaluable remedy Phosferine, and it has proved particularly serviceable where there exists insufficiency of nerve force. This condition, often due to primary weakness, lays the system open to influenza; colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, indigestion, fevers, and in remedying this predisposition I have found nothing so suitable as your preparation. Phosferine invariably goes to the root of the mischief direct. The certainly of its action is moreover an estimable feature. In debility and kindred ailments, caused by a reduced system, il has unprecedented power, and in my own case I can bear evidence to its exceptional value, and am indeed greatly indebted to its wonderful restorative properties. During the late war in South Africa, I was shot through both lungs and pericardium and that reduced me most dangerously; after taking Phosferine for about two months it brought me back to my usual health. I attribute this solely to the use of Phosferint. I have advised Phosferine in several cases, and proved its value in brain, nerve, and muscular exhaustion."-March 1st, 1910.

SOUR MILK CRAZE.

BFFECTS ON INFANTILE MORTALITY IN

Mr. David Frasor writes in " The Diary of a Traveller" he is contributing to The Times of India :- Next day was less monotoneus, for we passed through several Arab encampments and saw something of the domestic economy of these primitive people. Many of their camels and newly-born feals, and queer little beasts they are, covered with the softest snow-white down. For a cigaretto the herdsmen would willingly draw a bowlful of the rich milk of these newly-made mothers, and the Christian lady and all our caravan, but myself, revelled in the abundance. Shamu, however, procured for me what suited my palate better, a goodly supply of the finest leben. This is the sour milk become fashionable in England since I left home, but a very old friend of mine, for it is daily food throughout all Central Asia. It is ourious that the West has been so slow to appreciate this delectable Oriental steple of life, always known in some form or another throughout Europe. The Arabs make it of fresh milk,

when it is rich and nourishing, and of milk

from which the butter has been extracted, when it is the most refreshing and most delicious drink that man could weh for on a hot day. From both kinds the moisture can be allowed to drip away, leaving a rich cream choose, or a strong saltish cheese. Doctors affect to believe that the sour milk which they advocate must be produced in a particular way and by the right kind of microbe, and that none other is genuine. Well, the Arabs, and the Turks, and thing about microbes, and yet they provide the real thing day after day, and year after year, like their predecessors before them from time immemorial. And they do it simply by adding a little of yesterday's to the new milk of to-day, and it always comes the same. And they can start it off afresh by boiling the milk and letting it stand in wooden buckets in a cool place, and still it comes the same. Nor is its value ever more than that of fresh milk. Indeed, there seems to be current quite a number of distorted notions about sour milk. It is supposed to induce longevity, because Bulgarians who use it never die until over ninety years of age. Quite so, but how about the children? Wherever this food is used the infant mortality is over 50 per cent, and that is true of every country between the Persians, and the Turcomans, and the Kirghit, and hosts of others, do not know any-

A COMBUSTION TURBINE. A new French motor combines the steam turbine, the gas-engine and the hot air engine. The continuous rotary motion of the turbine is much less wasteful of energy than the reciprocating motion of piston engines, but attempts to utilize in turbines the great advantages of power from gas explosion have not been successful. The new machine is made to operate steadily and economically through simple gas combustion. The turbine, of ordinary type and working well at 600 to700 deg. C., is of special nickel, vanadium or tungaten steel, and has novel feature in a compressor on the same axle that sends into the gas generator a current of air at a pressure of several atmospheres. Heavy petrol oil sprayed into the generator is burned in the current of air heated to 1,800 deg. C. The great volume of gas produced gives sufficient pressure to drive the turbine, but as the heat is too great, the excess used partly for heating the air previous to combustion and partly to vapourize water injected into the gases. To resist the high temperatures, the gas receptacle is of metal lined with carborundum. The heat is fully utilized, and an odd mixture of air, carbonic acid and superheated steam turns the turbine.

THE OILY TRACK BEHIND & SHIP. The track of smooth water, or " heel water, stretching in the wake of a moving vessel often noticed, but little understood offect is not due to the influence oil on surface tension, though the stilling of the waves may be similar. Proj Ablhorn, a German investigator, has made some experiments with bodies moved on the water, and these show that the gyroscopic action of the eddies or whirls left behind on each side give the culm, oily-appearing track that is so familiar. The larger and swifter the ship the longer and broader is the smooth wake.

Arrenschu of Heits, Palestine, has pointed out that each region has a range of low mountains near the coast, and beyond this a long interior valley with a range of higher mountains for the eastern wall, and, as the prevailing winds have the same direction, the distribution of rainfall corresponds closely. It is found that the very similar climatic and topographic conditions have produced similar plants. The languishing of agriculture is Palestine seems to be a result of poor government, not of sterile, soil and arid climate, and it is believed that under better management the economic plants that florish in California will be successfully introduced Among the plants discovered in Palestine is a wheat, growing wild in high altitudes on sterile soil, that is considered the prototype of our cultivated varieties.

ELECTRICAL MEAT-CUBING. In electrical curing, meat is covered with ordinary pickle in large wooden tanks, through which is passed an alternating current of 35 amperes at 35 volts. The carbon electrodes are enclosed in porous cups dipping into the brine. The electrical action is not well understood, but the curing is hastened, and a vat of two tons of ment is treated for less than a dollar.

GOLD CONTRACTED BY HEAT. The curious transparency of gold leaf when heated in contact with glass has been found by-1 J. C. Chapman and H. L. Porter to have a carrious explanation. When gold leaf was stretched on a platinum loop and heated in a double-walled quartz crucible, it became more taut with rise in temperature, and eventually the contraction tore the leaf in places. The contraction temperature was above 340 deg. C. A leaf held by one side was weighted on the other edge to keep it under tension, and after reaching the critical temperature it contracted very rapidly with further increase. of the vessel smooth out the smaller waves and. The microscope showed a change to a structure decidedly more granviar. The effect is produced in the leaf only, and on heating gold wire there was no contraction. The transparency when hea'ed on glass is attributed to the numerous clear spaces produced by the tearing of the leaf.

OUT-DOOR FRESCOES. An interesting substitute for frescoes in outside decoration has been proposed by Prcf. Wm. Ostwald. The freeco was suitable for the Middle Ages, but the sulphuric soid always present in the air of coal burning cities causes much decoration to be rapidly destroyed at the present day. HERPICIDE NEWBRO'S

"I am blessed with an abundance of long hair, and I use the utmost care in the preservation of it. I have never found anything that pleases me as much as Newbro's Herpicide. It keeps the scalp clean and sanitary and adds a luxurious appearance to my hair that no other preparation will give. I consider it most delightful to use, and I can truly say that I prefer it above all other preparations for the hair. I like your soap also, and can recommend both highly to any lady who wishes a good head of hair,"

> JENNIE A. ABBOTT, 2443. Warden Avenue, CLEVELAND, OHIO.

While it is not natural for everyone to have extremely long hair, it is possible for every lady to have beautiful hair, for when the scalp is not diseased, the hair will grow naturally and abundantly.

The chief disease of the scalp is dandruff—which is highly contagious—and dandruff is now known to be caused by an invisible vegetable growth called the dandruff germ. Ordinarily, the first signs of scalp infection are dryness, dullness and brittleness of the hair, although the disease sometimes causes excessive oiliness. Following this, the hair loses its lustre, the scalp itches more or less and dandruff appears. Falling hair and baldness represent the last stages of hair destruction.

Newbro's Herpicide—the original remedy that kills the dandruff germ—will cure any stage of this disease, except chronic baldness, which is incurable. Herpicide not only destroys the dandruff germ and stops falling hair, but it is a most exquisite hair dressing, making the hair light and fluffy and giving it a silken gloss. Almost marvellous results sometimes follow the continued use of Herpicide. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

.. JAPANESE PAINTING.

The Times of the 10th ult. contains the following article on this interesting subject:-

Last Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday all the Japanese pictures that have been shown in small relays; at Shepherd's bush were exhibited devitalising in its effect, and so disorganising in a sain in three lar, or detachments at the Garden its result to the whole system is better under. Knowledge of the finer exceedingly prevalent, and is likely to continue Chinese and Japanese painting is still so new in Most-people know that while Malaria may take opinion about it, We have had to revise our so thoroughly and rapidly that we feel

Europe that even those who admire it most have some natural diffidence in expressing their ideas of Japanese painting, in particular, our revised ideas may be as far from the truth as - the old ones. Scarcely a generation passed since Whistler was moved to praised the daintiness and the exquisite frivelity of Oriental art. Now we know that the Jupanese themselves think little of their colour prints, or, indeed, of the whole genre school of painting out of which the colour prints arose. compared with their more serious religious and landscape art. And we further know that this more serious art of theirs was mainly an imitation of a still greater Chinese art, of which Whistler and the earlier European admirers of Japanese design were quite ignorant. Just at the time when we have had a signal proof that the Japanese are very serious masters of Stages sometions can muc be employed to the art of war, we have also dearnt that they are, or have been, masters no less serious of the act of painting; that they have used it, not merely, as the lesser French recoco painters used it, to illustrate their lighter pleasures, but also to express a profound religious emoti a and a profound delight in the beauties of nature. That is a difficult question to answer. No doubt the greater the power of representation, the greater the power of expression, where representation in used always as a means of expression. We have seen no Japanese or Chinese pleture that seems lo us to express so much as Michelangelo's "Creation of Adam" Titian's last " Pietà" or Rembrandt's " Suppor at Emmans." This finality, no doubt, is part of their attraction for us, whose art is so bewildered by the complexity of reality; but it is futile for our painters to imitate it, since it expresses a state of mind altogether different from ours. A European artist could not even paint monkeys as Sosen painted them; he could not pretend to the same easy familiarity with them; nor could be be so content to represent them just as they are. To us the monkey is either a figure of fun or man's poor relation. To Soson it was, like a flower, an object out of which he could make a picture, one of those objects which he chose out of the whole complexity of reality, and upon which he specialized. Our painters cannot specialize in this way; they are foo conscious of the relation between all objects and phenomena. Their eyes are too much affected by their minds. They tryato represent more than they can master, because every object they see is intellectually, if emotionally, connected with other objects and phenemena. The Japanese eye sees more singly, because the Japanese mind can isolate its interest in particular things. But this power of iso-

A Medical Officer

Debility, Nervous Exhaustion-

Certainly the absolute confidence of eminent doctors is evidence enough of the exceptional benefits imparted by Phosferine. Even doctors cannot do more to prove their confidence than by using Phosfirine to remedy their own disorders. Could any proof be more definite, more convincing than the testimony of John Dodd, D.S.M., Medical Officer in the late South African War, who says: "After being shot through both lungs I was dangerously reduced, and I attribute it solely to Phosferine that I regained my usual health. I have proved the value of Phosferine in brain, nerve, and muscular exhaustion." This brilliant medical officer found Phosferine particularly serviceable for insufficiency of nerve force, and declares nothing was so suitable in combating fevers, chilis, &c.

Not possible now

John Dodd, D.S.M. (late of the Medical Staff, 5th Imperial Yeomanny, ist Brigade, South Africa), Ladysmith House, Witton-le-Wear, writes: -41 have had considerable experience in the use of your invaluable remedy Phosferine, and it has proved particularly serviceable where there exists insufficiency of nerve force. This condition, often due to primary weakness, lays the system open to influenza, colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, indigestion, fevers, and in remedying this predisposition I have found nothing so suitable as your preparation. Phosferine invariably goes to the root of the mischief direct. The certainty of its action is moreover an estimable feature. In debility and kindred ailments, caused by a reduced system; it has unprecedented power, and in my own case I can bear evidence. to its exceptional value, and am indeed greatly indebted to its wonderful restorative properties. During the late war in South Africa, I was shot through both lungs and pericardium and that reduced me most dangerously; after taking Phosferine for about two months it brought me back to my usual health. I attribute this solely to the use of Phosferine. I have advised Phosferine in several cases, and proved its value in brain, nerve, and muscular exhaustion."-March 11, 1910.

SOUR MILK CRAZE.

EFFECTS OF INFANTILE MORTALITY IN

Mr. David Fraser writes in "The Diary of a Travaller" he is contributing to The Times f. India :- Next day was less monotonens, for we passed through several Arab encampments and saw something of the domestic economy of these primitive people. Many of their camels and newly-born feals, and queer little beasts they are, covered with the softest snow-white down. For a cigarette the herdsmen would willingly draw a bowlful of the rich milk of these newly-made mothers, and the Christian lady and all our caravan, but myself, revelled in the abundance. Shamu, however, procured for me what suited my palate better, a goodly supply of the finest leben. This is the sour milk become fashionable in England since I left home, but a very old friend of mine, for it is daily food throughout all Central Asia. It is curious that the West has been so slow to appreciate this delectable Oriental staple of life. always known in some form or another throughout Europe. The Arabs make it of fresh milk,

when it is rich and nourishing, and of milk

from which the butter has been extracted, when it is the most refreshing and most delicious drink that man could wah for on a hot day.

From both kinds the moisture can be allowed to drip away, leaving a rich cream cheese, or a strong saltish cheese. Doctors affect to believe that the sour milk which they advocate must be produced in a particular way and by the right kind of microbe, and that none other is genuine. Well, the Arabs, and the Turks, and the Persians, and the Turcomans, and the Kirghiz, and hosts of others, do not know anything about microbes, and yet they provide the real thing day after day, and year after year, like their predecessors before them from time immemorial. And they do it simply by adding a little of yesterday's to the new milk of to-day, and it always comes the same. And they can start it off afresh by boiling the milk and letting it stand in wooden buckets in a cool place, and still it comes the same. Nor is its value ever more than that of fresh milk. Indeed, there seems to be current quite a number of distorted notions about sour milk. It is supposed to induce longevity, because Bulgarians who use it never die until over ninety years of age. Quite so, but how about the children? Wherever this food is used the infant mortality is over 50 percent., and that is true of every country between

FCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

A COMBUSTION TURBINE. A new French motor combines the steam turbine, the gas-engine and the hot-air engine. The continuous rotary motion of the turbine is much less wasteful of energy than the reciprocating motion of piston engines, but attempts to utilize in turbines the great advantages of power from gas explosion have not been suc cessful. The new machine is made to operate steadily and economically through simple gas combustion. The turbine, of ordinary type and working well at 600 to70 deg. C., is of special nickel, vanadium or tungsten steel, and has a novel feature in a compressor on the same axis that sends into the gas-generator a current o air at a pressure of several atmospheres. Heavy. petrol oil sprayed into the generator is burned in the current of air heated to 1,800 deg. C. The great volume of gas produced gives sufficient pressure to drive the turbine, but as the heat is too great, the excess used partly for heating the air previous to combustion and partly to vapourize water injected into the gases. To resist the high temperatures, the gas receptacle is of metal lined with carborundum. The heat is fully utilized. and an odd mixture of air, carbonic avid and superheated steam turns the turbine. THE OILY TRACK BEHIND A SHIP.

The track of smooth water, or "heel water, stretching in the wake of a moving vessel often noticed, but little understood effect is not due to the influence oil on surface tension, though the stilling of the waves may be similar. Prof. Ahlhorn, a German investigator, has made some experiments with bodies moved on the water, and these show that the gyroscopic action of the eddies or whirls left behind on each side give the calm, oily-appearing track that is longer and broader is the smooth wake.

are travelling westward about 25 miles a year, according to the investigation of H. Wehner, a. German physicist. He accounts for this by novel theory that the earth's solid crust encloses a thin layer of liquid, within which is a solid nucleus rotating about the same sais as the outer shell, and in the same direction but The acid causes the parafflu to become insoluble, with a slightly less velocity, the lagging bebind causing the nucleus to make a revolution | agent that so rapidly effects all frescors. PALESTINE'S PROMISE.

That the soil possibilities of Palestine and California are much the same is quite a revelation. Prof. A. Arronsohn of Haifs, Palestine, has pointed out that each region has s range of low mountains near the coast, and beyond this a long interior valley with a range of higher mountains for the eastern wall, and as the prevailing winds have the same direction, the distribution of rainfall corresponds closely. It is found that the very similar climatic and topographic conditions have produced similar plants. The languishing of agriculture in Palestine seems to be a result of poor government, not of sterile, soil and arid climate, and it is believed that under better management the conomic plants that florish in California will be successfully introduced. Among the plants discovered in Palestine is a wheat, growing wild in high altitudes on sterile soil, that is considered the prototype of our cultivated varieties.

ELECTRICAL MEAT-CUBING. In electrical curing, meat is covered with ordinary pickle in large wooden tanks, through which is passed an alternating current of 35 amperes at 35 volts. The carbon electrodes ar enclosed in porous cups dipping into the brine The electrical action is not well understood but the curing is hastened, and a vat of two tons of ment is treated for less than a dollar.

GOLD CONTRACTED BY HEAT, The curious transparency of gold leaf when heated in contact with glass has been found by J. C. Chapman and H. L. Porter to have a currious explanation. When gold leaf was stretched on a platinum loop and heated in a double-walled quartz crucible, it became more tant with rise in temperature, and eventually the contraction tore the leaf in places. The contraction temperature was above 340 deg. C. A leaf held by one side was weighted on the other edge to keep it under tension, and after reaching the critical temperature it contracted very rapidly with further increase. of the vessel smooth out the smaller waves and The microscope showed a change to a structure decidedly more granular. The transparency when hea'ed on glass is attributed to the numerous clear spaces produced by the tearing of the leaf.

"I am blessed with an abundance of long bair, and I use the utmost care in the preservation of it. I have never found anything that pleases me as much as Newbro's Herpicide. It keeps the scalp clean and sanifary and adds a luxurious appearance to my hair that no other preparation will give. I consider it most delightful to use, and I can truly say that I prefer it above all other preparations for the hair. I like your soap also, and can recommend both highly to any lady who wishes a good head of hair."

JENNIE A. ABBOTT. 2443. Warden Avenue. CLEVELAND, OHIO.

While it is not natural for everyone to have extremely long hair, it is possible for every lady to have beautiful hair, for when the scalp is not diseased, the hair will grow naturally and abundantly.

The chief disease of the scalp is dandruff-which is highly contagious-and dandruff is now known to be caused by an invisible vegetable growth called the dandruff germ. Ordinarily, the first signs of scalp infection are dryness, dullness and brittleness of the hair, although the disease sometimes causes excessive oiliness. Following this, the hair loses its lustre, the scalp itches more or less and dandruff appears. Falling hair and baldness represent the last stages of hair destruction.

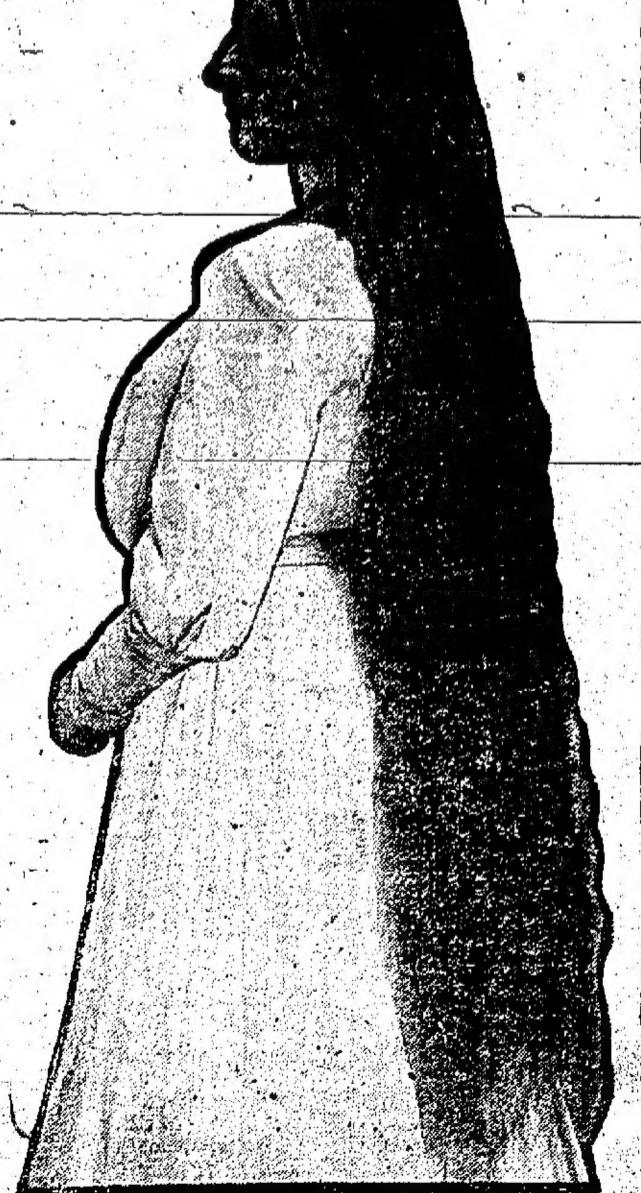

Newbro's Herpicide—the original remedy that kills the dandruff germ—will cure any stage of this disease, except chronic baldness, which is incurable. Herpicide not only destroys the dandruff germ and stops falling hair, but it is a most exquisite hair dressing, making the hair light and fluffy and giving it a silken gloss. Almost marvellous results sometimes follow the continued use of Herpicide. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

THERAPION.

Unquestionably the most reliable Patent Medi-cine ever introduced, it has been used in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Rostan, Johns. elpeau, Maisonneuve, the well-known Chassaignac, and indeed by all who are regarded as authorities in such matters, including the celebrated Lallemand and Roux, by whom it was some time. since uniformly adopted, and that it is worthy the attention of those who require such a remedy there is no doubt. From the time of Aristotle downwards, a potent agent in the removal of these diseases has (like the famed philosopher's stone) been the object of search of some hopeful, generous minds; and far beyond the more power if such could ever have been discovered -of transmuting the baser metals into gold is surely the discovery of a remedy so potent as to repleate the failing energies of the confirmed row in the one case, DOROTHEA CONYERS. (Author of "Thorn Bit," "The Boy, Some Horses, and a Girl," etc).

"I tell ye 'twould be a hard man that'd come over me in the matter of a horse," said Garry Neagle loudly.

A chorus of "surelys," and "why nots," and "ne've said its," slid out from behinds varied collection of lighted pipes and thick tumblers. The usual evening group was gathered in Fennessy's public house at Croagh village, The reek of raw whisky, heavy porter and vilo tobacce, wrestled with a dozen more established odours, jostling into a lively sorum of evil

The "public" was also the village general shop where a man could buy tes and matches and bacon and then stay on to drink. Garry was an important man there; he was an orator holding forth nightly. A portly, red faced man, with scrubby whiskers meeting under a double chin, and a fleshy nose dipping towards a loose dirty waistcoat stretched uneasily across his portly stomach.

"Oh, she's eight," suid the man carelessly. But as, of course, you can see, no more, asked the price, trembling.

Garry's spirits rose. Why this mare would grace Dublin. Sir John would give him fifty when he came to Crongh House, "Ye see," Garry came nearer to Mary, who Garry commenced to haggle. But he met

Then a view of Andy standing close by, an anxious smile on his thin face decided him, No young woman could resist the prospect of driving behind this treasure. He would tell Michael Fennessy the matter must be decided.

The bargain was concluded, the eleven pounds received for the cob and another twelve, taken from a greasy book were handed over to the dader, who seemed to find something very amusing somewhere, and in return Garry received five shillings, a glass of whisky, and the right to put the cob's bridle on the

of her modesty and silent patience nearly every woman endures suffering that casts a shadow over her existence. An aching back, tired limbs, attacks of faintness, and headache upon headache need not be part of a woman's life. Such indicate plainly that the system supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink These Pills are valued by the suffering sex above all medicines, because they created Rich, Pure Blood—the Red Blood that makes women well, bright, and at their best. This, which ordinary medicines cannot do, is the secret of the success of

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

A TYPICAL CURE. "IT WAS A WONDER HOW I LIVED."

"After the birth of my third child I passed through the most trying period of my life," said Mrs. T. V. Pillay, wife of the relieving Station Master for the Henzada district of the Burma railways. "My nerves were shattered and I simply hadn't the strength to recover. Physi ciaus attended me for a long time, during the whole of which I remained helpless in bad. One of the doctors said my system was so weak from blood poverty that it was a wonder how I lived. "At nights my sleep was full of horrid dreams and many a time I awoke screaming with fright or dumb with terror, bathed in perspiration. My hair came out in patches through my Weskness. "When at last I got up, severe cutting pains seized me between back and chest, I suffered with splitting headaches and fits of dizziness. felt weaker than a child.

"Then my husband heard from a friend how cases such as mine were cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I resolved to try them. After taking three bottles of Dr. Williams' Pluk Pills," continued Mrs. Pillay, " it was obvious to everyone that I was distinctly better. Soon after that I was able to go out and take reasonable exercise. I looked forward to meal times and took my food with appetite, the pains in my chest and back left me entirely and the head aches and dizziness also became things of the past. "Thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I am as strong to-day as ever I was in my life, and my last baby is a model both for weight and size. I am sure that his fine condition is due solely to the way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills built

THE DR. WILLIAMS' WAY IS THE NATURAL WAY. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills work wonders upon weak, bloodless women and girls because they fill the starved veins with New, Good Blood and fortify the nerves. They have cured repeatedly in both sexes not only Ausemia, Nervous Disorders, Nouralgia, St. Vitus Dance, Rheumatiam, Scintica, Paralysis, Indigestion, Disordered Liver, Malaria, Eczema and Skin Eruptions. Only gennine when bearing the seven words, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. by all dealers or sent direct by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 84, Szechuen Road, Shanghai, 1 bottle for $1.50, or 6 bottles for $8, post free.

THE JAPANESE TARIFF.

INDIA'S SUGGESTED RETALKATION.

Sir Roper Lethbridge writes to The Times that while the proposal of the Bengul National Chamber of Commerce to impose an export duty on cotton to counteract the Japanese tariff is not likely to be accepted, raw cotton not being a monopoly in India, the Chamber's proposal for an export duty on raw jute stands on a very different footing, this being an absolute monopoly of Bongal. Germany, America, Austria, and France take large quantities, and such a duty would go for to recoup the Indian revenues for the free admission of Eancashire and other British manufactured It would provide for the cotton excise and would give the Dundee and Calcutta intermills, aided by Imperial preference, absolute command of the Colonial market. The export duty would also enable the Foreign Office to offer Jupan a telling argument for the better fiscal treatment of Indian and British trade.

REVIEWS.

With Boat and Gun in the Yangtze Valley (2nd Edition). By H. T. WADE, Shanghai: Shanghai Mercury, Limited.

Too much praise cannot be given to this book which is a veritable encyclopædia of information for all sportsmen and students of natural history having leisure to visit this delectable country. Residents of Shanghai and of Central China may well congratulate themselves on being so. near such a "happy hunting ground," and we less favoured mortals farther south can only wish the Yangtzo Valley a thousand miles nearer, and are consumed with regret that the Canton-Hankow Railway is vet a thing of the future. The book details the flying and ground game of the lower Yangtzo basin, and describes everything from a snippet to a bustard, and from a weasel to a tiger. In compiling this mass of sporting information Mr. Wade has been materially assisted by "valued contributors," who have sent him interesting notes from several outlying centres and from as far west as Ichang. Up-country trippers should profit from the many valuable hints contained in r variety of subjects which include articles on houseboats, yachts and yachting, dogs, guns and ammunition, and there is even a chapter devoted to "Up-country Cookery." Possible trouble with the natives is anticipated in an article by His Majesty's late Consul General for China entitled, "What to do in case of trouble with the natives," which should be read by every "griffin" and by the inexperienced in general. Not the least interesting feature of the book is its "Topographical Notes," which include sketches by such well known men as the Venerable Archdescon Moule, B.D., and also the Right Ray. Bishop Moule, D.D., of Hangehow. Very interesting, too, is the article by a Chinese contributorillustrated by native woodcuts-entitled, "Some Chinese Methods of Shooting and Trapping Game," and the author's |" Memberablia" and "Notes from my Diary" call for spacial attention. Taken altogether the book is the best of its kind we have seen "East of Suez," and the author is to be congratulated on the excellence of his work and on the care bestowed on its publication by the Shanghai Mercury.

GETTING A BIT BETTER.

A young lady outhusiast happened to sit next a Bishop at dinner. Knowing her failing, the good man thought that he might improve the occasion by a friendly word in season. Having introduced the subject of her obsession, he ra-marked sententiously. "It is a great pity that so much time is wasted at bridge which might be better employed." "Yes!" she exclaimed in cordial agreement-"isn't there, over cutting and dealing, and so on; but it's not so bad now they don't play spades."-From "The Confessions of a Bridge Player" by "Quilon,"
